saint mary's press

SCRIPTURE SESSIONS

on the

NEW TESTAMENT

SCRIPTURE SESSIONS ON THE NEW TESTAMENT

Pray It! Study It! Live It! $^{\circledR}$ resources offer a holistic approach to learning, living, and passing on the Catholic faith.

SCRIPTURE SESSIONS ON THE NEW TESTAMENT

PARTICIPANT WORKBOOK

TONY TAMBERINO

Genuine recycled paper with 10% post-consumer waste. 5099400

The publishing team included Laurie Delgatto and Brian Singer-Towns, development editors; Lorraine Kilmartin, reviewer; Mary Koehler, permissions editor; prepress and manufacturing coordinated by the prepublication and production services departments of Saint Mary's Press.

Copyright © 2006 by Saint Mary's Press, Christian Brothers Publications, 702 Terrace Heights, Winona, MN 55987-1318, www.smp.org. All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced by any means without the written permission of the publisher.

Printed in the United States of America

Printing: 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Year: 2014 13 12 11 10 09 08 07 06

ISBN-13: 978-0-88489-866-5 ISBN-10: 0-88489-866-0

CONTENTS

Introduction
READING THE BIBLE AS CATHOLICS
2
Introduction to the Gospels
3 The Synoptic Gospels
4 The Gospel of John22
5 Acts and Galatians: The Universality of Christianity26
6 Romans and James: Faith31
The Book of Revelation: Our Ultimate Destiny
S Truth in the Bible
Acknowledgments44
No part of this book may be reproduced by any means.

Introduction

STUDYING THE SCRIPTURES

WHY STUDY THE BIBLE?

Why do we study the Bible? If it is God's truth, can't we just read the words and immediately "get" what they mean?

The fact is that some of the Bible can be puzzling to modern ears. We may not understand the circumstances under which the texts were written or the meaning intended by the authors. Some of the material might seem contradictory. These traits are particularly true of the Old Testament, whose origins are complex.

In a literal sense, the Bible has been translated from the Hebrew and the Greek into a number of English versions. The translation we speak of here includes study that is aimed at discovering an author's original intent in writing a given scriptural text. Once we see what the author meant—and this takes some understanding of the circumstances at that time—we can appreciate what God is saying to us today through these texts.

The purpose of studying the Scriptures is not simply that we might know a lot of things about the Bible or even its theological meaning. Knowledge is important and useful but not enough. The deeper intent of Scripture study is that we "fall in love" with the Bible and with God, who is its source and inspiration.

WHY THE NEW TESTAMENT?

But as for you, continue in what you have learned and firmly believed, knowing from whom you learned it, and how from childhood you have known the sacred writings that are able to instruct you for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. All scripture is inspired by God and is useful for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, so that everyone who belongs to God may be proficient, equipped for every good work. (2 Timothy 3:14–17)

Timothy was a young Christian leader, and this passage from the New Testament is addressed to him. He is encouraged to use the Scriptures as a basis for his life. The author tells Timothy that the Scriptures can be used for teaching, for living morally, and for growing spiritually.

The need to build a life based on the Scriptures is just as important today as it was for people during the time Second Timothy was written. God's revelation in the Scriptures provides answers to life's crucial questions. And just like Timothy, each of us can explore the Scriptures to find the guidance we need.

This course is designed to give you a foundation for a solid Catholic understanding of Scripture. The sessions in this workbook will challenge you to study the New Testament with purpose, to read and proclaim the word of God with faith, and to live that word in every moment.

For each session offered at your parish or school, this workbook has corresponding activities that include Scripture readings, commentaries, reflection and discussion questions, ideas to think about, and topics to discuss with your fellow faith-sharers, friends, and family members.

READING THE BIBLE AS CATHOLICS

Reading and studying the Bible can be a daunting task, particularly for those whose experience is limited to Sunday liturgy or religion classes. Often we are confused about how to understand the sacred Scriptures and are unaware that not all Christians approach studying and praying the Bible in the same way. During this session we will examine some factors Catholics should keep in mind as they encounter God's word.

THE SCRIPTURES

But Timothy has just now come to us from you, and has brought us the good news of your faith and love. He has told us also that you always remember us kindly and long to see us—just as we long to see you. For this reason, brothers and sisters, during all our distress and persecution we have been encouraged about you through your faith. For we now live, if you continue to stand firm in the Lord. How can we thank God enough for you in return for all the joy that we feel before our God because of you? Night and day we pray most earnestly that we may see you face to face and restore whatever is lacking in your faith.

Now may our God and Father himself and our Lord Jesus direct our way to you. And may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, just as we abound in love for you. And may he so strengthen your hearts in holiness that you may be blameless before our God and Father at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his saints. (1 Thessalonians 3:6–13)

ENCOURAGEMENT

Sometimes, we feel alone in our faith. We wonder if anyone feels, thinks, or prays the way we do. As a first missionary of the faith, Paul must have experienced his share of dark days when he wondered if the people would really accept the Good News. He must have been so encouraged when Timothy returned to tell him of the "faith and love" of the Thessalonians (1 Thessalonians 3:6).

The Christian faith is never meant to be held privately. We don't grow in our faith, hope, and love by being isolated from other people. Like Paul, we need the encouragement and challenge of other people; our family, friends, and the entire Christian community. (The Catholic Youth Bible®, near 1 Thessalonians 3:6–13)