

The Two Feet of Service and Justice

Caring for others involves both acts of charity and acts of justice. Review the illustration on page 498 in the Handbook, and then complete the following chart. For every person or group of people in need described in the left-hand column, provide one example of an act of charity you can do to help, and one action of social justice you can undertake to address the problem.

Person(s) in need	An act of charity	An act of social justice
A local family unable to pay for their basic needs because of the high cost of caring for a sick family member
A community in a developing nation where children do not receive any schooling
A student who is routinely bullied by classmates
Workers who work in “sweatshop” conditions for below-subsistence wages
