

The Disciples' Dilemma

Imagine that you are one of the disciples who lived and worked with Jesus during his ministry in Palestine. You have just experienced the Last Supper, the trial and execution of Jesus, and now his Resurrection from the dead. The question you face is, What do I do now? Below are some options you have. Circle the number of the one that you feel is right for you and most in line with Jesus' message.

1. Go out into the streets and the synagogues to announce that Jesus is the Christ and that the people are to repent and believe in him.
2. Seek out poor and oppressed people and search for ways to serve them.
3. Organize people who feel like you do into social-action groups.
4. Go off alone to pray and reflect on the meaning of the incredible events.
5. Organize classes to inform people about Jesus and the lessons you learned from him.
6. Begin work on a written record of what you have experienced, while the thoughts and feelings are still fresh in your memory.
7. Wait until someone tells you what to do.
8. Can you think of any other option? If so, write it down here.
