

Dear Millie and Mike

Read the following letters to advice columnists Millie and Mike. On a separate sheet of paper, write responses to the letters, giving appropriate advice.

Scenario A

Dear Millie and Mike,

I met a boy at a friend's house. We texted each other. Then I got some really creepy, sexy texts from him. What should I do now? Help!

Signed, Jill

Scenario B

Dear Millie and Mike,

I am on the school basketball team. One of the guys on the team was goofing around and took pictures of me and the other guys without permission. They weren't bad pictures, but he sent them to his friends, and they put them on a social networking site! I want them to take the pictures down. What can I do?

Signed, Doug

Scenario C

Dear Millie and Mike,

I want to be a fashion designer. I like trying out different looks. I want to put pictures of myself wearing various outfits on social media so I can get feedback from friends and other people. Do you think this is a good idea? What should I watch out for?

Signed, Tiffany

Scenario D

Dear Millie and Mike,

I have a computer in my room. My parents told me not to go into Internet chat rooms with adults. But I really like to chat about trains and model railroading, so I do it anyway. So far it is cool. Will I get into trouble? What should I do if my parents find out?

Signed, Jake

Scenario E

Dear Millie and Mike,

My older sister is in high school. She is dating a guy who isn't very nice to her. He drinks and swears and yells at her. Last night I overheard him yelling again. He shouted that he was tired of waiting, and if she wouldn't have sex with him, he was done being her boyfriend. She cried and begged him to wait a little longer. He left and she ran to her room crying. What can I do to help her?

Signed, Sylvie
